

Pamela Lyall

- Trained with McGrigor Donald as a solicitor and then spent three years with Cochran Sayers & Cook working in personal injury field. In 1986 joined Dundas & Wilson in Edinburgh and worked almost exclusively for insurers dealing with the broad range of insurance matters. Made partner in 1992 and headed up the Insurance Litigation team acting for a number of major insurers. Qualified as Solicitor - Advocate in 1996.
- Accredited as mediator by CEDR (Centre for Dispute Resolution) in 2000 and since been involved in Core Mediation Limited, provider of mediation services, as Director.
- Participated in many commercial mediations and facilitations across a broad range of sectors:
 - commercial contracts
 - partnership disputes
 - use of land
 - professional negligence
 - personal injury
 - education
 - commercial property
 - construction
 - employment
- Party feedback:
 - “She kept the progress of mediation under control. She adopted a proactive stance, suggesting effective means of moving things along at a point where the procedure appeared to have ground to a halt.”
 - “The ability to remain impartial and listen to the client.”
 - “...showed genuine interest in clients’ approach and concerns but at the same time remained unbiased. Client was very assured by that approach.”
 - “....positive approach, good humoured, lightness of touch, very impressive.....”
 - “The ability to put succinctly the possible consequences of each party’s position and setting them to think of alternatives.”
 - “A careful and pleasant approach which encouraged both sides to have faith in the process.”
 - “Grasp of the facts of the matter, realistic and pragmatic approach.”
 - Involved in training of mediators as a trainer and coach and specialist courses for advanced training.